

CREATE CULTURAL CHANGE

Tempest Productions and VOX Project extend a special invitation to kick off a national campaign to stop the trafficking, prostitution and sexual exploitation of girls and boys in the US.

Please join us for a spirited and thought-provoking evening in three acts.

- ACT ONE: a staged reading of BODY&SOLD, a documentary play by Deborah Lake Fortson
- ACT TWO: a dynamic post-performance dialogue led by young writers and artists
- ACT THREE: a casual reception to celebrate community collaborations

Monday, March 26, 2007 at 7pm

Boston Playwrights' Theatre
949 Commonwealth Avenue
Boston MA 02215

Please note that tickets are free, but seating is extremely limited. To reserve your place, please reply by March 17th to info@bodyandsold.org or phone Belina at 617.460.5294.

This special event is sponsored by Boston Playwrights' Theatre.

VOX Project is spearheading a national awareness campaign to end the sexual exploitation, prostitution and trafficking of girls and boys in the US. VOX Project's mission is to ignite deep concern and generate survivor-informed, advocacy-driven, culturally conscious messaging to set the stage for systemic change so all children can lead safer, healthier lives. VOX Project emanates from its founders' work with exploited youth and the conviction that the voices of the new generation are the essential compelling force for cultural change.

BODY & SOLD

Body&Sold is a documentary play based on interviews with young Americans from Minneapolis, Hartford and Boston who were lured, coerced or kidnapped into lives of prostitution and violence. This spring Tempest Productions is partnering with theaters, social agencies and schools in ten cities across the country to stage readings of Body&Sold to raise awareness about this savage epidemic and use theater as a catalyst for community action.
